Situated at the crossroads of two Pennsylvania Byways—Route 144 and the Bucktail Trail—Route 120, is the Flaming Foliage Visitor's Center in Renovo, Clinton County—home of the annual Flaming Foliage Festival that brings thousands of visitors into the Region to enjoy Mother Nature's artistic talents.

The purpose of this project was to further enhance the Flaming Foliage Festival building for use as a visitor information center. Funding for this project allowed for the creation of an ADA entrance into the building, an ADA unisex restroom, placement of knotty-pine walls with insulation, placement of a 30 gallon water heater for the restroom water, purchase of rustic brochure and magazine displays (using products from within Lumber Heritage and PA WILDS region), the purchase of picnic tables and benches for the property, a new door for the entrance of the building and signage for the property and the building.

The funding also assisted in the addition of electrical improvements that will supply electricity to vendors during the Flaming Foliage Festival and other community events.

This community and regional effort will provide over 400 local registered boaters and visitors an option for visiting and enjoying the City of Lock Haven. By connecting the river to the community, the dock will serve to connect people to the river, community open spaces and the downtown.

Each year, the Lock Haven boat dock will be installed in the river from the beginning of May through the end of October, weather permitting. Access to this new dock will encourage more boaters to dock on the City of Lock Haven's side of the river and access the river walk, amphitheater and downtown business district.

"This is truly a community partnership of local, regional and state agencies and we are excited about the opportunities the boat dock will offer our community" stated Mayor Baney.
